November 5, 2008

I am proud and excited to see that Hartley College website passed 10 successful years. We have to compliment the web-team for this remarkable achievement.

While many of us may wish for additions of fancy cool stuff such as flash, macro and java to our web pages, it is my humble opinion that we keep it simple, specifically considering the limitation on time that can be dedicated by the web-team.

At the same time, I believe there can be few improvements to make things better, while keeping the outfit of the website as is.

I suggest to consider the following:

1. A utility for the key office bearers of HCPPAs, the HCPPA trust and to the Principal to post messages thereby the web-team may not have to spend their valuable time in formatting or editing the messages and posting them on the webpage.
2. A subscription service for those who would like to receive alerts of any new posting by email.
3. Reopen the site for remarks, and keep it like blog pages
4. update the history pages, and daily diary pages
5. Enabling automatic update of the database information by members themselves

Our associations should help the web-team to find volunteers to assist in these improvements.

I take this moment to sincerely thank the web-team for their constant good care of Hartley College website, and for taking care of our requests to post messages and circulate mass-mails.

Sincerely,

V. Vijenthira
President
